S. S. Hope Sinks And Is Raised

The little steamer, Hope, owned by Lewis & Fletcher, again displayed her submarine characteristics by quietly exploring the formations and growth at the bottom of Etolin Harbor while she was supposed to be lying snugly at anchor. The Hope sank but like the human quality was raised again by the efforts of its owners.

Some floating sticks in the bilge knocking out a plug in the planking is supposed to be the cause of the latest exploring trip.

Rush Going North

The Revenue Cutter "Rush", made port here late yesterday afternoon and lay at anchor in the harbor over night. The Rush is on its way to Juneau, after a trip to Seattle for overhauling and repairs.

Wanted a remedy free.
Mrs. Newlyriche—Now that we are wealthy we must look up our ancestors, Jason.
Mr. Newlyriche—Not a bad idea, Ma. I'll write the detective agency tomorrow.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

O-U-R-O-L-E-R-I-N-K

With a rush and a roar the new roller rink opened Monday with a full representation of Wrangell skaters who took advantage of the first chance to enjoy the pleasing exercise in their home town. A great many beginners, too, clamped on the obstinate, or, all-to-willing little rollers and although several spills were experienced, no one was injured and all made surprising progress toward the degree of perfection that brings the real enjoyment of the sport.

The "400" Skating Club has chartered the roller rink for Friday afternoon January 12th.

The rink will be open each night this week and Tuesday and Saturday evening next week.

Left Handed Tact.

A poor attempt at tact is worse than none at all. In a banking house the other day somebody just back from several years on the other side of the Atlantic tried to throw a compliment at an old fellow, saying to him, "Why, you don't look a day older than ten years ago; indeed, you don't look sixty-five." The old fellow was mad enough to blow up, for he is only sixty-four and a half, and he believes he doesn't look more than fifty. — New York Press.

Large Crew At Point Ward

W. D. Grant and Fred Amundsen came in from Point Ward Sunday and report that work on the Point Ward Cannery is progressing rapidly by the efforts of a crew of fifty men. The quarters for the men are not all completed and quite a "tent city" has sprung up at Ward's Cove.

It was found necessary to blast out some rocks on the side hill in order to make room for all the buildings. "Teddy" Cunningham is handling the explosives and does the blasting in a manner very satisfactory to all concerned and especially so to himself for it has been reported that he makes more noise than the blasts, which fact we would probably be aware of through the sense of hearing if the "Stikine" was not blowing so hard against his efforts.

Dog License Due

Notice is hereby given that the license on dogs for the year 1912 is now due and all persons owning or having charge of dogs in the Town of Wrangell are hereby notified that the said license must be paid to the Town Treasurer, Leo C. Patenaude, on or before January 31st, 1912.

All unlicensed dogs found running at large after the above named date will be disposed of as provided for by Ordinance, passed and approved by the Town of Wrangell, Alaska.

N. L. MOEN,
Poundmaster,

Launched Soon

the new 60 x 20 pile driver being built by J. E. Savles in Grant's boat shop will be ready to launch early next week. When completed it will be used for driving the piles for the Point Ward cannery.

St. Philip's Church

"Getting Hot", will be the theme at St. Philip's Church, Sunday evening January 14th. Come and help in the service. All are cordially invited.

Had Him Both Ways.

"When are ye goin' to pay me that dollar?"
"How's that?"
"I say it's time ye paid me that dollar."
"Can't hear a word ye say."
"Wait a minit an' I'll write it down."
"Tain't no use. Can't see without my specs."—Life.

Too Neighborly.
"The Finchbys are altogether too neighborly."
"Eh? Why, I thought I heard you praising them to the skies."
"You did. But the other night they gave a party and borrowed our hired girl."
"Well?"
"And they've forgotten to return her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Council Doings

The Common Council of the Town of Wrangell met in regular session last Thursday evening at the City Hall.

Aside from the regular routine of business the most important matter taken up was the payment of $600.00 of the municipal water system obligation. This is the first step of the council in the riding the town of the water system expense and they hope to make the $1000.00 mark before April.

Nothing Cheap For Edward.

Edward, with his parents, was taking dinner at a restaurant.
"Well, Edward," said the waiter, who knew the little fellow, "what are you going to eat today?"
"I don't know yet," was the innocent answer, "but I know it will be something we can't afford to eat at home."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Watch and Wait.

"You needn't go on a still or wild hunt for trouble, my son," says a Georgia philosopher. "You needn't ford streams nor climb mountains to find him. If you'll just stay where you are and let the world spin round without your assistance trouble will travel your way and draw up a chair and take the warmest corner at your fireplace."—Atlanta Constitution.

Former Resident Passed Away

News was received here early last week of the death on January 1st, of A. J. Amundson, of Portland, Oregon, a former resident of Wrangell.

Mr. Amundson was the father of Mrs. H. Wallace, Mrs. Thos. Dalgity, Mrs. F. Godrich, Mrs. Prescott and Fred Amundsen, who are residents of Wrangell.

Funeral services were held in Portland on January 3.

Coming Up

And already there are good prices for fresh halibut. Owing to the scarcity of halibut on the inside where the numerous small halibut schooners can fish, the supply of fresh halibut is obtained only in fair weather on the outside by large fish boats and as a consequence halibut prices are soaring. Shipments on the Jefferson brought 9 1/2 cents and higher prices are expected.

Milliner.

The term milliner is derived from Milaner, so called from Milan, Italy, which at one time gave the law to Europe in all matters of taste, dress and elegance. Milliner was originally applied to the male sex.

Supreme Confidence.

"Mrs. Grayson seems to have the utmost confidence in her husband." "I have often noticed it. I believe she would even eat mushrooms that he had picked."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PATIENCE.

When I think of it I perceive that Patience is our fairy godmother, who brings us our harvests in the long result.—George Meredith.

Gets Harder and Harder.

"The average man," says one of the philosophers, "is generally busy making a living."

It is a curious fact that practice hardly ever seems to make it any easier.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Baseball Versus Art.

Teacher (reprovingly)—The word isn't "pitcher," Percy. It's "picture." You, Tommy, tell the class the difference between the two words. Tommy (son of an artist)—Pitchers sell for more than pictures.—Puck.

PRIDE IN RICHES.

He that is proud of riches is a fool, for if he be exalted above his neighbors because he hath more gold how much inferior is he to a gold mine!—Jeremy Taylor.

The Scrap Book

Her Adonis.

In the negro car of a railway train in one of the gulf states a bridal couple were riding—a very light, rather good looking colored girl and a typical full blooded negro of possibly a reverted type, with receding forehead, protruding eyes, broad, flat nose, very thick lips and almost no chin. He was positively and aggressively ugly.

LOOKED SOULFULLY UP.

They had been married just before boarding the train and, like a good many of their white brothers and sisters, were very much interested in each other, regardless of the amusement of their neighbors. After rapturous "billings and cooings" the man sank down in the seat and, resting his head on the lady's shoulder, looked soulfully up into her eyes.

She looked fondly down upon him and after a few minutes murmured gently, "Laws' honey, ain't yo' 'shamed to be so han'some?"—Youth's Companion.

Little Things.

A goodbye kiss is a little thing, With your hand on the door to go, But it takes the venom out of the sting Of a thoughtless word or a cruel fling That you made an hour ago.

A kiss of greeting is sweet and rare After the toll of the day, And it smooths the furrows plowed by care, The lines on the forehead you once called fair, In the years that have flown away.

'Tis a little thing to say, "You are kind; I love you, my dear," each night, But it sends a thrill through the heart, and— For love is tender and love is blind— As we climb life's rugged height.

We starve each other for love's caress; We take, but we do not give, It seems so easy some soul to bless, But we dole the love grudgingly, less and less, Till 'tis bitter and hard to live.

—Andrew Lang.

Completing the Order.

A dear little old lady who has no idea at all that she is old made a discovery the other day. She overheard her grand nephew telling another young man something about the excellence of the "free lunch" served at a certain big New York hotel. In the innocence of her perfectly dear old soul she put the information down in her memory for future reference. Soon after that she happened to be attending a concert at this same hotel, and the party—herself, her nephew and niece—went to the tea room later for a bit of refreshment. The tea was ordered, and then the dear little old lady looked at the waiter and with a sweet, old fashioned smile and a suggestion of triumph in her manner, said:

"And you may bring us also some free lunch."—New York Press.

Foolish Delay.

A company of colored actors was playing "Othello" in Alabama. Everything had gone along nicely until they came to the scene where Desdemona's fidelity is to be tested. Iago has secured her handkerchief by enjoining, with the connivance of Othello himself, that her incontinence may be established.

Othello—Desdemona, where am dat hankkerchief? (Desdemona remains silent.)

Othello—Desdemona, once more I ask yo' where am dat hankkerchief? At this juncture an old negro woman in the front of the house rose furiously from her seat. "Go way, yo' fool niggah!" she exclaimed loudly. "Wipe youah nose on youah sleeve and let dis play go on!"

Women in Japan.

Until Chinese ideas came to be ascendant the Japanese never thought of keeping women in subjection, says the Oriental Review. Feminine chiefs are frequently mentioned in the old histories, and there have been famous Japanese empresses.

The Lobster.

The lobster is decidedly pugnacious, engaging in frequent combats with others of its kind, in which contests limbs are often severed, but this loss is soon repaired by the growth of new members, rather smaller, though, than the old ones.

The Senior Class think they will not go into the business of buying and selling stocks if they have such a time with it as they did in the Arithmetic.

Our firemen are the busiest people in the building these cold days. If some of the space under the building was occupied by a heating plant we fancy we might be warmer.

A Composer. Hoax—I thought you said that man was a musician? Joax—Nonsense! "You certainly told me he wrote melodies."

Not Taking. "My son is taking algebra under you this term, is he not?" remarked the fond father to the new high school teacher. "Well," was the answer, "your son has been 'exposed' to algebra, but I doubt if he will take it."

Hall Caine's Role. Hall Caine, with his long hair, his beard and his flowing cape, is fairly well known to everybody, if only from photographs. This fact encourages one to tell a story.

It happened when one of Mr. Caine's plays was running at the Wild-horses-won't-drag-it's-name-from-us theater. The author decided that the least he could do after the performance was to go round and congratulate the lead lady. So when the curtain fell he went round behind and tapped at the lady's dressing room door.

The lady sent her maid to see who it was. The maid went.

Now, the passage outside was rather dimly lit, and when the maid opened the door and saw a strange looking figure standing outside she promptly ejaculated "Oh!" in a tone of extreme surprise, shut the door and returned to her mistress in a state of some bewilderment.

"Well," asked the leading lady, "who is it?"

"I—I scarcely know, miss," gasped the maid, then, as a brilliant after thought, "unless it's the bearded lady!" London Tatler.

Marlin Big Game REPEATING RIFLES

The Special Smokeless Steel barrel, rifled deep on the Ballard system, creates perfect combustion, develops highest velocity and hurls the bullet with utmost accuracy and mightiest killing impact.

The mechanism is direct-acting, strong, simple and perfectly adjusted. It never clogs. The protecting wall of solid steel between your head and cartridge keeps rain, sleet, snow and all foreign matter from getting into the action. The side ejection throws shells away from line of sight and allows instant repeat shots always.

Built in perfect proportion throughout, in many high power calibers, it is a quick handling, powerful, accurate gun for all big game.

Every hunter should know all the Marlin characteristics. The Marlin Firearms Co. Send for our free catalog. Enclose 3 stamps for postage. 42 Willow Street New Haven, Conn.
